Royal Roads University is in Victoria, the capital city of British Columbia, on the southern tip of Vancouver Island. It has easy access to the mainland with Vancouver, Whistler and Seattle (USA) in close proximity. This region of North America is known as the Pacific Northwest.

Founded in 1843, today's Victoria has grown from its very English origins into a city filled with sophisticated, international flavor and spectacular natural beauty. It's a place where the casual modernism of the West Coast blends with time-honoured British, European, First Nations and Asian traditions.

Victoria is a laid-back city with plenty of shops, cafés and restaurants offering everything from fresh, local West Coast cuisine to global specialties. With more restaurants per person than New York City, Victoria delivers a dish for every taste. Enjoy live theatre performances, art galleries, and year round festivals like Symphony Splash, Feast of Fields, the Dragon Boat Festival, International Jazz Fest, International Blues Bash, the Fringe Festival and Chinese New Year.

English for Academic Purposes is an undergraduate pre-degree program designed for international students with a minimum English level of IELTS 3.0 or equivalent. In this 1 or 2 semester program, students develop the four key language skills of speaking, listening, reading and writing, in the context of degree-level studies. A strong emphasis is placed on frequent assignments, a high level of formative assessment and detailed, supportive feedback. This approach enables close tracking of a student's progress and facilitates the provision of individual guidance. A further and important element of this program is the help given to students to adapt to living and studying in a new environment.

Once students meet the minimum language requirements of IELTS 4.5 or equivalent they can progress into the University Bridging Program (see page 10).

"Yesterday during some team meeting time, I commended one team for how well they seemed to be working together and we got into a very interesting conversation about team dynamics and the culture in the classroom.

This team talked about how they had a couple of big battles at the start and then realized it was all because of cultural differences. They then agreed to use these differences to their advantage to solve case problems and work on assignments and it all clicked. Abdullmohsen can't believe how much he is learning about other cultures and said this opportunity would have never been available to him in Saudi Arabia and Lisa said that she has learned more in her brief time at RRU then she did all of last year at her university in Germany. When I asked her to expand she talked about the team concept and the diversity in the classroom as much as she did the curriculum."

ACCOMMODATION AND INSURANCE

Homestay Program

Through the services of Canada Homestay International, students will have access to caring family homes. The homestay program allows students to live with Canadian families, thus being exposed to, and participating in, local culture and customs. It is also a great way to enhance English language study through after school practice with the host family. A host family typically plays an important role in helping the student adjust to Canadian life. As much as possible, the student is included in the family unit. Canada Homestay International has a well-established network of experienced host families.

Their staff have personally inspected each home and have interviewed the family to ensure quality homestays. The family will provide a private, furnished bedroom and meals.

Homes are located in appealing and safe neighbourhoods of Greater Victoria, accessible to Royal Roads University by public transportation.

Private Accommodation

For students age 19 years and over who prefer a more independent living environment, the International Study Centre at Royal Roads can also assist in arranging private accommodation.

Student Insurance

International students are required to have the protection of personal insurance for the duration of their time in Canada. The university-approved insurance is StudyCare - a plan designed especially for international students.

StudyCare will cover you for loss of personal possessions, as well as provide health and medical insurance. Full information about StudyCare insurance is published in the StudyCare policy booklet, available from the International Study Centre website.

“The University helped me to find a nice family, who would share their home with me and make me feel like home.”

Francisco Alan Martinez Zavala, Mexico
Bachelor of Business Administration

GREAT VALUE

HOW TO APPLY

- ✓ 48 hour undergraduate admission decision
- ✓ No application deadline
- ✓ No application fee

As a public university, Royal Roads can charge lower tuition fees, thus offering a better cost value when compared to many North American private universities. Canadian international tuition fees, accommodation and other living expenses allow for an undergraduate student with average spending habits to expect to pay no more than $25,000 - $30,000 for all of their expenses in one year at Royal Roads University. Tuition fees are valid for the spring and summer 2014 intakes. Royal Roads University typically revises tuition fees in the late spring for the fall intake. There is no application fee at the International Study Centre.
